

ESGO Rules for Endorsement of Scientific Meetings

1. Policy

ESGO is committed to disseminate and share knowledge in the field of gynaecological oncology. As part of this mission, ESGO offers official endorsement of a quality educational program in gynaecological oncology that meets the internationally acceptable standard for continuing medical education in the field. Each year, ESGO endorses a limited number of in-person or virtual meetings organized by applicants who are:

- Local partners (Hospital / University / Institution)
- Individual ESGO member/-s
- ESGO Task Forces or related Networks
- National societies for Gynaecological Oncology or Gynaecology & Obstetrics
- Other sister Societies (e.g., ESMO, ESTRO, ESP, etc)

In general, ESGO endorses European meetings, but may also consider endorsing non-European meetings if the application comes from a non-European ESGO member, or a National Society. All applications are reviewed and decided by the Educational Committee.

ESGO does not endorse meetings initiated by companies that provide medical education as their core business. In the case of sponsorship by the pharmaceutical industry, the meeting must be multi-sponsored and should not compete in date and topic with any other ESGO educational activity. In addition, ESGO does not endorse European meetings to be held less than 30 days prior to its annual general meeting (European Congress on Gynaecological Oncology), with the exemption of Annual National meetings organized by National societies for Gynaecological Oncology or Gynaecology & Obstetrics. Exceptionally, other institutional meetings could be discussed with organizers.

- ESGO provides the following support modalities:
  - a) Pure logo endorsement
  - b) Endorsement with ESGO speaker (no financial support)
  - c) ESGO session at a sister society meeting/ national/ international meeting (no financial support)
- For ESGO sessions, joint sessions and for endorsement with ESGO speakers, an ESGO representative will be designated as the contact person who must be involved for the preparation of the scientific programme.
